

Hints

On the number line, what would be the fewest number of equal sections you would need to show 1.6, and how much would each section be worth?

What does a decimal grid look like, how many grids would you need? How many sections would you need for each grid? What could you do with those sections to show 1.6?

How could you show 1.6 as money? What money would you use so that you didn't have to use a lot of bills/coins?