

A proportional relationship is a linear proportional relationship that has a constant rate of change and contains the point $(0, 0)$.